He knows how to correctly identify skin issues I guess hes seen a lot. Ive been to other dermatologist in the past and they have not only incorrectly identified what was going on but then also wanted me to do certain treatments that were unwarranted. I also went to a podiatrist who change the diagnosis of one of the issues on my foot (a planters wart) when it did not respond the way he expected it to to his treatmeant and said it probably was not a wart but instead a nevi. He couldnt seem to make up his mind as to what the problem was but Dr Ahmad Amin knew what it was right away and didnt waiver. He knows his skin stuff and that is very reassuring. He is also very compassionate.
